Scotland Yard

We recently collaborated with Atkins on this project to redesign the public realm at New Scotland Yard. The basement area was previously occupied by an Italian restaurant who's entrance took the form of a large concrete structure at street level. This has been replaced by a new housing clad in blue glass and the basement transferred to Police use. The famous rotating sign has been relocated to the paved area in front providing a generous space to work for the many TV crews who use it for outside broadcasting.
